Managers
Leaders
Agile Coaches

With increasing complexity, leaders can't rely on knowing everything. While we want teams to solve many of their own challenges, leaders play a critical part by helping teams continue to improve and develop but without creating a dependency. This requires leaders to have the awareness and protocols in place to know the best skill approach for the team's evolution towards high performance. This course brings critical tools, techniques, skills and ideas from professional coaching and leadership to help create amazing teams.
